Clinical Expertise

Dr. Tihesha Wilson is a fellowship-trained, board certified, breast surgeon. Her fellowship training took place through a combination program including Anne Arundel, Georgetown and Johns Hopkins. Dr. Wilson has extensive training in oncoplastic surgery which allows surgery with hidden scars keeping the architecture of the breast. She is committed to creating a specialized and unique treatment plan that is tailored for every patient, leveraging expertise in minimally invasive surgical techniques and breast conservation approaches.

Dr. Wilson traveled abroad studying integrative medicine as it pertains to breast care which allows for open, honest discussions with patients about which pathways to healing will serve them best. She considers integrative medicine an adjunct to western medicine.

Multidisciplinary Care

As medical director of the Comprehensive Breast Care Program, Dr. Wilson leads a multidisciplinary team dedicated to providing patients with the highest quality, most compassionate care.

Our Comprehensive Breast Care Program features a unique continuum of care. From diagnosis to treatment, we offer clinical excellence, compassionate care and a scope of services that encompass essential inpatient care and outpatient therapeutic services. We know that treating cancer involves more than surgery, chemotherapy and radiation. We offer a team approach focused on body, mind and spirit that is customized to each patient's and their caregiver's needs.
